

PROTEIN FORTIFIED FOOD

A study conducted by the AIS, Sport Australia and Sport Integrity Australia has found that commercially manufactured 'Protein Fortified Foods' (PFF) present no additional risk of containing substances banned in sport than other processed foods. This is the result of high quality food manufacturing standards in Australia.

However, some shops or cafes prepare and sell protein fortified foods that contain unidentified protein ingredients or added botanical ingredients (such as Maca powder) and as such are higher risk PFFs. PFFs containing hemp protein ingredients may contain trace amounts of the banned substance Tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) and should be avoided by athletes.

*Protein supplements are not PFFs but it can be hard to tell the difference. If the first ingredient listed on the product label is protein, it is likely considered a protein supplement. If you are unsure whether it's a PFF or a protein supplement (e.g. high protein bar) look for batch-tested options.

The examples above are a guide – if you have questions about the risk of any product, contact Sport Integrity Australia at 1300 027 232.
